

Abstract

An expandable structure carried at the end of a catheter tube assembly can be contracted and/or wrapped to present a reduced profile during deployment and/or 5 removal from a targeted tissue site.